

Hello, I found myself in a studio with a camera. So I thought I'd take the opportunity - I'm here in Sydney Australia - to just throw in my thoughts and my 20 years of research now into this whole phenomenon that's unfolding as I speak called the Occupy Movement that came out of Wall Street of course.

And it's a great thing, it's fantastic that people are waking up to the point where they're saying, I'm a slave and I ain't having it anymore. That's the great Rubicon that needs crossing so we can do something about this.

The reason I'm just gonna put this information out - people make of it what they will - is there's another agenda going on here too. And if the genuine response to this grotesque enslavement of humanity in terms of finance, in terms of so many other things is going to be challenged effectively, then people need to get streetwise to what this other agenda is. And also the fundamentals of what we're dealing with. So I'm gonna take it in stages.

First of all the fundamentals of what we're dealing with. If anything is going to happen that's going to change this tyranny of global banking and global finance then first of all the way that money is created and what passes for money is created has to fundamentally change. If this doesn't change, nothing's gonna change cause the power doesn't move. There's no change in the power dynamic of money creation because people now realize this in vast vast numbers, that when you ask the question, how is money created, where does money come from? People got this kinda feeling, well it's the governments in it. No, overwhelmingly, massively overwhelmingly it is not the governments. It is private banks which if you do the research owned by the same people under different names, the same network under different names. Private banks are creating what we call money out of fresh bloody air and then charging us interest on it.

And it works like this:

If you go into a bank and you borrow 50 thousand dollars, what does the bank do? Does it move precious metal anywhere? I mean what does it do? What it does is it types into your account 50 thousand dollars and from that moment you start paying interest on 50 thousand dollars that has never, does not and will never exist. Fresh air, theoretical money called credit. This has been allowed to happen because again when you do the research, the same networks that control governments and therefore pass legislation to do with banking are the same networks that control the banks and the banking system. Therefore laws have been passed called Fractional Reserve Lending that allow banks to lend at least, and my goodness it's at least, 10 times what they have on deposit. So when you put a dollar in a bank that bank can now lend 9/10 that it does not have. Fresh air, figures on a screen.

Not only that. You borrow 50 thousand dollars from the bank, what does it do? It types into your account 50 thousand dollars, okay, now you're paying interest on it but you take 10 thousand dollars and you say, I'm gonna buy that car and you give 10 thousand dollars to the guy who owns the car to buy the car of it. Now the guy who's received your 10 thousand dollars that was created out of nothing in the original 50 thousand, now goes and deposits the 10 grand in his own bank. Now that bank can lend ten times the 10 grand that was created outta nothing in the first place.

This is what's going on. And then if you follow one loan of 50 thousand dollars or whatever. You follow that through the banking system and that one loan allows the banking system as a whole to create phenomenal amounts of nonexistent money we call credit from that original nonexistent credit loan. This is how the banking system, ladies and gentlemen have taken the world over. Why wouldn't they when they can do that?!

And there's another little scam here. All written in on purpose, cold calculated. When you go into a bank and you borrow 50 thousand dollars the bank creates - even in this theoretical, ludicrous way - 50 thousand dollars. But your not paying back 50 thousand dollars, you're paying back 50 thousand dollars plus interest. The interest is never created. Even as credit. Which means a simple fact, at any point in time, coldly calculated, designed to be there is never anything like enough units of exchange money in circulation to pay back all the principal on the debt and all the interest on the outstanding debt.

Therefore people losing their homes, losing their businesses, losing goodness knows what else that they've worked for, is built into the system. Now when you have a boom and there is an expansion of this nonexistent ludicrous money called credit then "Peter pays Paul" hides to a large extent the fact that we're in this situation where the outstanding debt cannot be paid back or even nearly paid back plus interest cause there isn't units of exchange to do it. But when you go into a recession or a depression and there is a contraction of those ludicrous units of exchange in circulation, then it becomes blatantly obvious that there's not enough units of exchange to pay back all the interest on the debt and all the principal and that's why you get this explosion, which we've go now, of people losing their homes, losing their businesses, losing their land, their farms etc. and all these tent cities that are appearing around the world.

And so we have a system where the private banks in the end controlled by the same network, not least around the House of Rothschild and others, the Rockefellers too in America, have been given this level of power to create money and dictate completely beyond governments global finance. And that's why they've been able to create booms and busts at will. That's why when they want to create a bust and a depression which they have now, what do they do? They refuse to issue the same amounts of ludicrous credit units of exchange and what do we call it? Oh, the banks have got a credit crunch, a credit crunch, what's that? It's suppressing the amount of money in circulation, so by definition creating this situation we're in. The whole money system has been designed from its creation to be a system of human enslavement and human control and human suppression. So first of all any occupying protests around the world on the agenda has to be the end of private banks being able to create money out of fresh air on a computer screen and charge interest on it!

Now here's a question, why are governments - the government after all, don't they write the laws, I heard somewhere they did - why are they not creating their own currency interest-free and circulating it interest-free therefore it does the job it's supposed to do which is to be a unit of exchange to overcome the limitations of barter. Why? I've said it already, because the same networks that control the banks control the governments. And so the governments do not pass legislation... What are we borrowing fresh air money from the banks for plus interest and making the people have to pay in taxation all that stuff back? All we gotta do is create our money interest-free because you see, at the moment the very unit of exchange which allows economic activity to happen is created at the very start as a debt by people borrowing money from banks called credit. It's a debt from the start. The very units of exchange in the world. It's crazy, it's insane!

No. 2

That has got to go. No more government - and we need to redefine what we see as government too - no government borrows money at interest from private banks. Ludicrous!

Then there's another thing, like I say, whether we have a boom or bust is decided by this very banking system because they have what they call an "economic cycle". It's total corruption and total manipulation. First of all they put lots of units of exchange out. Credit, oh, you know, you want 216 a week .... have this off a million pound's house, yeah, here's my money, take it. And they put lots of units of exchange in circulation.

And there's a boom manufactured and when people are in a boom and they are confident about their jobs, they go into more debt, a bigger house, a bigger car and all the rest of it. And then what they do at an optimum point, this is what they did in 2008, is they take or create an excuse to take money out of circulation. Now the economic activity generated by that amount of money in circulation is no longer possible. And we move over here - fishing line coming in now - to a depression or a slump. People do not lose their homes, overwhelmingly because they don't wanna work anymore. They lose their homes cause there's not enough economic activity to generate the income to pay the mortgage. Companies don't go bust cause they think, it'd be a bit of fun. They go through a bust because there's not enough demand for their products at the time of a downturn when the money in circulation is being reduced. And what happens? The banks that have created this problem in the first place, they take the homes, they take the businesses, they take the land, they take the real wealth for having not being paid back money that has not, does not and will never exist. This is the power that the governments, controlled by the same network, have given to the banks to control planet earth. Anything that comes out of these Occupy protests that does not include demands, not taking no for an answer, this is gonna go, is gonna change nothing.

And there's another couple of things, maybe a few more that I'd like to get across to those that are brilliantly protesting around the world. Because there's nothing more manipulable and genuine as it is in streetwise. And what we need to do if we really gonna bring an end to this outrageous, inhuman nonsense, is we have to get streetwise pretty damn quick. Because there are a people, vultures flying around, flitting around these protests, not least in Wall Street trying to direct it in a certain direction that will make the world more enslaved and more unjust than it is now.

There's certain coordinates, three will do in this presentation, if you like:

1. Where does this network behind the banking system and behind governments and behind the transnational corporations, where does it want to take us? Ok? Well, simple! It wants total control over the entire human race. Mentally, emotionally, physically and financially! And to do that - and there's a few compared with a 7 billion global population, there are a handful of people at the core of this, in full knowledge of what they're doing - they have to constantly centralize decision making. Because the more you centralize decision making, the more power the few have over an even greater people, numbers of people. The other thing that goes on is the more you centralize power, the more power you have centrally to centralize even quicker. So that the process of centralization of power - it's been given a word now for a longtime called Globalization - this can move quicker and quicker and quicker through this process of centralized power, more power to centralize even quicker.

What they want to create, I've been writing about this now for nearly 20 years, is they want a world government that would dictate all laws, apart from a few local things, all the major laws will be dictated by this world government just as the European Union dictatorship now dictates something like 75% of the laws that are passed in Britain. They want a world government then that would dictate to everybody on the planet. They want a world central bank that would dictate all global finance to every, what is now countries, now they wanna break them up into regions. They want a world army to impose the will of the world government on anyone that doesn't wanna accept it. That's what NATO is now.

You know when they're justifying bombing whole cities of civilians on the pretext of protecting civilians. And they say the world community has decided, we have G8, and the international... that's code for World Government! And when they then say, we're gonna bring NATO in, cause the world community has decided, no actually America, Britain, France and one or two others have bloody decided... and Israel, they are talking about NATO as a world army. The idea of this structure where they wanna take us is to have a world government that says, these people or this group, this what is now a country, is not accepting our diktats, send the boys in! And that's what we've seen in Libya. That's what they're trying to bring in in Syria. That's what we're seeing increasingly around the world. The International Community has decided, send the boys in! NATO, de facto world army. International Community, G8, de facto world government. We're seeing it being moved into place. They want a world single electronic currency that would replace all of the currencies, no more cash. So now you go into a shop or something, you hand over electronic money, your credit card, the computer says, no, won't accept your card. You least now still, although it's going out of circulation at an extraordinary rate, you can still say, okay I'll pay cash. What about when there's no cash and that computer says no to your credit card or your microchip as it is designed to be eventually?! That's deciding if you purchase or not. It's all about control!

And so they want this world currency, and that's what we're seeing in Europe now. People say, oh, the Euro's not working, look. No it's not, you know why? Cause it's not supposed to work, it's just a stepping stone. You want all those currencies in Euro, in Italy and France and all these different currencies. They want it on the process of getting to this world currency to get rid of them. So they replaced them all, nearly all of them anyway with the Euro. Now all those currencies in one fell swoop gone. Now we're down on one in Europe, in most countries the Euro. So now what do they do? They wanna make the Euro not work as the next stage of getting more and more towards this one world currency.

So, another thing to mark the card for anyone involved in these Occupy protests. If any suggestion comes along that we should go to some form of world government or some or to... and they're even talking about it now, to a world central bank and all this stuff, no no! Listen, it's centralization of power in this world that has got us into this mess. If you have diversity of decision making there's so many points of decision making, no cabal at the center can dictate that or manipulate that on anything like the scale that it can when you have centralization of power!

So we've got the European Union, we've got... which is a fascist dictatorship or communist dictatorship, whichever you wanna call it. We got this single currency and all the rest of it, all this economic disaster in Europe, all manipulated on purpose as it is in America and elsewhere. And I'm seeing people say, well the answer to all the problems caused by this constant centralization of power, we need more centralization of power, let's go to a world level now. And yet, as I've shown in my books for 20 years this is exactly what that the plan has been all along. And if we're not very very careful, many of the Occupy protesters are going to be manipulated, unless they get streetwise about the game and how it's played, they are going to get manipulated into accepting, even demanding a solution to a problem that is going to make the problem even worse and the enslavement of humanity even more extreme!

When you look at where they want to take us, which is into this centralized global dictatorship. When you look at the main technique that they use to take us there, I gave it a name, a long time ago now: Problem - Reaction - Solution. Dead simple, devastating.

At stage 1 you create a problem, you blame someone or something else for it to hide the fact that you're really behind it. You then through an unquestioning and pathetic media tell the people the version of the problem you want them to believe.

What you want at stage 2 is the reaction to the problem from the people: fear, outrage, something must be done! It could be a war, it could be a terrorist attack like the Mossad / American intelligence operation known as 911. It could be an economic collapse, whatever. Whatever problem you need to be allowed you to go to stage 3 of Problem, Reaction, Solution which is to offer the solutions to the problems you have covertly created and blamed someone or something else for it. And those solutions are constantly advancing your agenda to this centralized global dictatorship that I'm talking about.

So when you crash the global economy and when you're moving trillions and trillions of dollars around the world economy every day, that's what this network is, you decide if it goes up or down. Nobody else does because you do. And therefore you can create an economic collapse at will. That's what they did in 2008 and they've gone on with it since. And the idea is that that problem is then offer the solution. And people like the Rothschild controlled bad man and billionaire George Soros, one of the major funders by the way into existence of moveon.org which is trying to move in this democratic party owned, cabal owned operation moving in on the wall street protests and stuff like that. You can then offer the solutions that Sorosses and others are offering, which are what? To solve this economic global crash we need a World Central Bank... stands back in amazement, I'm shocked, knock me down with a feather and I shall swoon.

It's so blatant, it's so callable, it's an open book once you do research and you realize where this is going. And so... it's so vital as we've reached this point, this cusp where so many people have gone through or are going through this process now, where they're saying, I'm a slave and I'm not having it. And then they go to the next stage, which is what we're starting to see, it's so important that they don't allow themselves to be pawns, genuine pawns, unknowing pawns but pawns all the same in a manipulation that then takes us on to the next stage of an even greater financial and human enslavement than we've had up to this point. Because this is a vital area. It's vital not to get focused and obsessed with corporations and banks and all that stuff, it's about control, it's about human control and the form it takes doesn't matter to these people, they just want the form that brings most control. Now in the process of doing this, they've reached a point where the control has been going on through a banking system, private banking system controlled by these families and their networks and through corporations controlled by the same families and these networks.

I keep seeing people say, we must have and end to capitalism, we don't have capitalism! We have cartelism! It's like J.D. Rockefeller said: "Competition is a sin". That we have an oil cartel, a pharmaceutical cartel, a biotech cartel, on and on it goes. And these are the cartels of these families. This is how they control and dictate to this point, but they wanna go the ultimate level of human control where they don't have corporations as we know them anymore and so if we can get caught in, yeah, get rid of the corporations, I'm all for that! But the question is, to be replaced by what? And this is the structure they want, they want the world government, the world central bank, the world currency, the world army to implement the will of the world government and then they want the world government ministries. Read '1984'. George Orwell, real name Eric Blair wasn't coming from his imagination, he had access to the projected agenda through the Fabian Society. Exactly the same Fabian Society that Aldous Huxley was a member of and thus had the inside knowledge to write a prophetic novel called 'Brave New World'. They were coming from knowledge of what the projection was. Huxley it seems supporting it and Orwell not supporting it, trying to expose it but it's still the same source of where it came from. This has been going on for for so long.

What they want is the world government and then the World Ministry of Oil which would take over all the oil corporations, all the oil infrastructure, all the oil finance, everything. They want a World Ministry of Health that would take over all the pharmaceuticals and encompass what is now the World Health Organization, a Rockefeller-Rothschild creation by the way. They want a World Ministry of Trade that would encompass the World Trade Organization and dictate global trade from a central point. A World Ministry of this, a World Ministry of Biotech and all the rest of it.

And so they want to absorb the corporations as they are now into these ministries for the ultimate global dictatorship. And the same people behind the banking system now and the corporations now will be controlling the world government and the ministries. They're the same thing but it will go onto a much higher level and much more coordinated level of human control.

So, they will want people, protesters against the outrageous injustices and grotesque actions and behavior of the corporations to call for the end of the corporations, call for the end of the banks. Yes, fine! But we, we have to dictate what replaces them. Diversity, diversity, diversity from the center, control of the people and their own lives in their own communities. Not what they want and what, I have to say, speaking now, I'm seeing happening around the world in these protests, having the cabal you were protesting against dictating what this stuff is replaced by.

If we go there, more and more centralization of power we'll live in a global fascist state within 10 years. Our children and grandchildren will live a life time bloody nightmare. Or we can go this way and say, we want power from the center to people in their communities, so no central cabal can dictate the lives of everyone in a country or a state, never mind everybody on the bloody planet.

And one final thing, you know, these organizations that move in like moveon.org, I mean I wish they bloody would, the sooner the bloody better, that are Soros funded and Democrat Party controlled, all these people and then there's, I mean the people, a lot of people in the protests they hear this, they'll be going, booh what are you doing? Cause I've seen them do it to people, global warming caused by humans is a bloody giant hoax! It's been created to justify dramatic changes in society and control in society to advance this very agenda I'm talking about because if you're playing Problem, Reaction, Solution and you want therefore to present global change, you gotta generate global problems to which you can offer global solutions.

Climate change, everyone's affected, we need global laws, what's international law by the way? Oh, international law, international law is law that everyone on the planet is supposed to obey. This is the world government international law coming into place. Anyone who does a modicum of basic scientific research they will see that human caused climate change, notice it's climate change it's temperatures start falling, when they go up again in the sun cycle it will be global warming again. But do a modicum of research and you find that the whole idea was a scam. Anything that Al Gore is involved is a scam is down by definition, he knows nothing else. And yet we're having these organizations like was it 350.org and these others. Oh yes, we must have climate change legislation! Yes, come on, build me prison a bit more, give me some carbon tax, let them have it, high five!

Cause that's the way we gotta solve the prob... the way we solve the problem, we take our fricking minds back and stop having them dictate it by other people, you must believe this, you must believe that... and I... you know again this might upset a few people but you know I don't care. When I see around some of these protests someone on a microphone speaking the words and then everyone repeats the sentence. Then he says another sentence and anyone repeats the sentence... and we want freedom?! People say to me, oh yeah, but that's giving everyone a voice... No, it's not, it's giving him the right to repeat what he's saying! It's not giving them a voice, it's turning them into group think. Which is how we got into this mess. Individual think, unique think that is what will get us out of it. Breaking out of these patterns of collective response and behavior.

So, I'm not interested in 350.org. Take your bloody nonsense about climate bloody changing, spread it somewhere else. We're trying to bring about real change here, not selling another aspect of a global agenda. And moveon.org and everyone like you, you gotta do your bloody work somewhere else. Take your Soros money somewhere else. This is gonna be a revolution that's gonna make a difference. It's gonna be a revolution of people not organizations, not cooperating with their own enslavement, individual and yes together collectively!

This is a great opportunity to make a difference but we need to get streetwise, and we need to get these parasites of the genuine energy of the people who've concluded, I'm a slave and I'm not having it out of this whole deal. Cause if we don't they'll take it over and they'll do what every other one has done when it seems like some change is taking place. Look at Obama: "Change I stand for change!" No you don't, you stand for business as usual and then some... as we've seen. It's just a word. Real change happens in changing real lives, not in spouting the fricking syllables: CHA-ANGE or CHANGE. One syllable, two syllables? One syllable it doesn't bloody matter, does it? Cause when Obama says it it could be 50 bloody syllables, nothing's gonna change for the better. Cause he ain't there to do that, so we have to do it.

Come on, let's go!
